GUEST EDITOR

- 2023 “GLOBAL MERCHANTS IN SPANISH AMERICA: BUSINESS, NETWORKS AND INDEPENDENCE, 1800-1830”

con Ander Permanyer (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid)

Journal of Evolutionary Studies in Business, Vol. 8, n. 1, pp. 1-239, ISSN 2385-7137, Barcelona
<https://revistes.ub.edu/index.php/JESB>

This collection of essays looks at the role the Hispanic Global merchants played in working within the vacuum created by the crisis of the Spanish Monarchy to transform both the Atlantic and inter-Pacific commerce, with major implications on 19th century globalisation.

The special issue contains eight articles authored by Francisco Betancourt Castillo (Universidad Bernardo O'Higgins, Chile), Marie Christine Duggan (Keene State College, USA), Cristina Mazzeo (Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú), Laurine Manac'h (Paris 1 Panthéon Sorbonne - EHEHI Casa de Velázquez, UMR 8168 Mondes Américains - CRALMI/CERMA, France), Ander Permanyer Ugartemendia (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain) and me.

“THE HISPANIC WORLD AT WAR AND THE GLOBAL TRANSFORMATION OF COMMERCE”

with Ander Permanyer (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid)

Journal of Evolutionary Studies in Business, Vol. 8, n. 1, pp. 1-42, ISSN 2385-7137, Barcelona

<https://doi.org/10.1344/jesb2023.8.1.40640>

This article unveils the Hispanic merchants' role in elaborating new commercial and financial practices in the fluid and foundational moment of the Age of Revolutions. Their initiative may be considered at the origins of 19th-century Free Trade.

“THE WEAPONS OF REVOLUTIONS: GLOBAL MERCHANTS AND THE ARMS TRADE IN SOUTH AMERICA (1808-1824)”
 Journal of Evolutionary Studies in Business, Vol. 8, n. 1., pp. 81-118, ISSN 2385-7137, Barcelona
<https://doi.org/10.1344/jesb2023.8.1.34043>
 This article shows how, during the Independence Wars in Spanish America, arms supplies to governments encouraged early post-mercantilist developments. It reveals how the arms trade in Spanish America reinforced British and US role in Asian trade and ties between Hispanic American and Asian commerce and economies.

LEVELS: A1/A2: BASIC LEVEL - B1/B2: INTERMEDIATE LEVEL - C1/C2: ADVANCED LEARNER

I can read Romance languages, especially Portuguese, and Latin; I can translate from ancient Greek.

Communicative skills

I have often worked in group, both in university settings as well as in other spheres. I have participated in numerous scientific congresses, which allowed me to establish a network of international contacts. I have collaborated, among others, with Clément Thibaud (EHESS, Paris, France); Carlos Contreras (Universidad Católica del Perú, Lima); Alejandra Irigoin (London School of Economics, London, United Kingdom); Ander Permanyer-Ugartemendia (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Spain), Igor Pérez Tostado (Universidad Pablo de Olavide), Antonio Ibarra (Universidad Autónoma de México).

Organizational and operational skills

I have developed organisational skills through the organisation of various events, both in the academic (panel, workshops, seminars, etc.) and in the non-academic field (theatre festivals, political events, etc.). I have had the honour of coordinating European and American scholars in projects such as the ENIUGH, LASA and AHILA congresses, in the monographic issue for the Journal of Evolutionary Studies in Business and in the proposal I am submitting of a monographic issue to the Journal of Iberian and Latin American Studies.
